

“ELM’s workshops are a must have for every career centre...”

Getting a job isn’t getting any easier! Your students are faced with fierce competition on the labour market these days. Next to the ongoing credit crunch, the job market is getting more international every year. How do you ensure your students are well prepared for the global workplace? Do they know how to job hunt across borders? Do they understand multicultural management requirements? Have they got the skills to convince an employer in another country they are the right candidate for the job? And what about your international students? If they are looking for work in the Netherlands, do they know how to market their capabilities in such a manner that a Dutch recruiter wants to hire them?

Expertise in Labour Mobility offers two workshops which provide added value for your final year students and recent graduates and helps them to become the successful globehoppers of the future.

1. Looking for Work around the Globe

- Programme: This workshop provides an insight into the job-hunting cultures of over 40 countries, from Spain to Singapore and from Brussels to Bangalore, this workshop explains what it takes to get that job abroad.
- Added value: Understanding cultural job hunting issues, next to tips, hints and tricks to be successful on the international job market.

2. Looking for Work in the Netherlands

- Programme: This workshop explains in detail the application procedure, CV writing, work permit requirements and management culture in the Netherlands .
- Added value: It helps to understand what makes the Dutch Dutch and how to be successful on the Dutch job market.

Workshop fee: 850 € (ex VAT and travel expenses) including postcards.

Workshop duration: 3 hours.

Workshop leader: Nannette Ripmeester has over 15 years experiences in dealing with international labour mobility issues. Her work experience at the European Commission together with the HR-related assignments for multinational enterprises, makes her the ultimate resource for young people in the process of making the transition to a professional international career.

Best regards,
Ryan Hendrawan Putra
Marketing and Communication Assistant